TOBA to Hold Ownership Seminar at Keeneland on April 18

LEXINGTON, Ky. – The Thoroughbred Owners and Breeders Association (TOBA) will hold a Thoroughbred Ownership Seminar on Friday, April 18, 2014 at Keeneland Race Course in Lexington, Ky. The seminar, sponsored by Blood-Horse Publications, will feature approaches to success, options for acquiring horses and resources for Thoroughbred owners. Attendees will have the opportunity to watch the morning workouts, participate in a new “virtual ownership” session on the backstretch, and wrap up the event with an afternoon of racing. The seminar will also be available as a webcast.

The agenda will soon be available at www.toba.org. TOBA’s seminars and clinics are held throughout the country each year; the complete schedule can be viewed at www.toba.org. These educational events are informative for both new and current Thoroughbred owners and breeders. TOBA members receive a discounted rate for each clinic and non-members can join TOBA today.
